

BUILDING SURVEYS

Often referred to as Structural Surveys, these in-depth reports detail all aspects of the construction of a property, providing a condition status for each and identifying any areas of defect.

Our Chartered Building Surveyors can offer a range of surveys, from advice on a specific area of concern, through to a comprehensive Building Inspection Report that addresses important issues such as services, fire safety, provision for disabled people, deleterious materials and environmental matters.

Because of our detailed knowledge of business premises, our surveys don't just point to any problems but help in proposing possible solutions, timescales and estimated costs.
